Dear Mr. McCone:

In the course of the Study a committee under my direction has been making of Brazil since January of this year, we have had the excellent cooperation and assistance of one of your officers, [redacted], on our Working Group. She has actively participated in the Group's discussions, prepared several papers at our request, and generally turned in one of the best performances among the inter-Agency representatives working on the Study. Her contribution both at the meetings and through her papers has been of a gratifyingly high order and has shown knowledge, good analytical ability, thoroughness, and judgment. She obviously thinks about a problem before speaking to it, her drafting is clear and concise, and the organization of her presentations, excellent. She has met such deadlines as had to be set and has always shown complete willingness to take on and do without delay anything she has been asked to do, despite the heavy work-load which I understand she normally carries in your Agency.

I write you at this time in order to ensure that an appropriate record of the work [redacted] had done for us these past four and a half months will be in her personnel dossier before the end of the fiscal year. I hope we may consult her further in the final stages of our activities. She is a valuable officer.

Thank you for making [redacted] available to us so generously.

With best personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

Ellsworth Bunker

The Honorable
John A. McCone,
